GOLDEN BOUGH PLAYERS FORM ORGANIZATION

PREPARING to organize the Golden Bough players for the thirteenth season, an enthusiastic group of amateur the plans met Wednesday evening at the Filmarte theater. Preliminary plans were discussed, and it was decided to hold another meeting next Wednesday evening at the same place, to decide on a play to be produced late in April or early in May.

The Golden Bough players is a loose and informal organization, formed for fun and to put on shows. It is open to anyone interested in any branch of play production, or merely interested in the theater. The group gathered Wednesday expressed interest in the Monday evening dramatics class to meet at Sunset school under the auspices of the high school adult education department, and it is probable that the two groups will have about the same personnel.

All who are interested are invited to attend the next meeting of the Golden Bough players, at the Filmarte theater next Wednesday evening.

Dramatic Class To Open Monday

First meeting of the weekly seminar in dramatics will be held at Sunset school auditorium next Monday evening at 7:30. The new venture is sponsored by the adult education department of the Monterey Union high school as a clearing house for Carmel dramatic activities, and Clay Otto will be the instructor. The form which the class work will take will depend largely on an expression of preference of members gathered at the first meeting. There are about 60 Carmelites known to be actively interested in the study and production of plays, and it is hoped that these will all turn out for the study group. It will be possible for such a group to study worthwhile plays regardless of whether they are "box office hits," and to widen the members' acquaintance with the literature and technique of the theater.

Boiler-Room Project at School Approved

Word was received Tuesday by Major W. H. Landers, WPA director for this district, that the boiler-room project at Sunset school has been approved in Washington, and the work will start forthwith. This is a project inherited by WPA from SERA, under which preliminary excavations were started. The Sunset trustees are sponsors. The boiler room is now under one of the class rooms and it is believed that it will be a safety measure to move the plant to the new room separate from the school building.

LIQUOR CASE POSTPONED

Due to a conflict of cases on the court calendar, Carmel's liquor clause case instituted by the Carmel Development Company against Espindola's store, has been reset for April 14 in the Superior Court at Salinas.

Eighth Street Extension to Del Mar Halted; Build Storm Drain

EVIDENCES of a considerable amount of work being done at the top of the cliff on Scenic Drive, just at the foot of Eighth aroused much curiosity here this week, and resulted in a meeting of the group formerly known as the SERA project committee on the scene at noon Tuesday. Mayor James Thoburn called the committee meeting, after having received numerous inquiries as to what was going on. A wide space at the top of the bank had been graded, and a roadway outlined down over the dunes at the foot of the bank.

At the council meeting of March 4 Street Commissioner Joseph A. Burge had brought up the matter of opening Del Mar avenue at its south end, and of opening Eighth street to meet it, in order to provide for more parking of cars near the beach, and to give a traffic outlet south and east from the vicinity of Ocean and Del Mar. The council took no action on the suggestion, but it was believed that the grading at the foot of Eighth street was a preliminary to such a road project. The result would be a traffic artery virtually across the beach, from the present dead end of Del Mar to Eighth street. Considerable apprehension was aroused among citizens who regard this as one of the loveliest portions of the beach, and it was felt that unless vitally necessary, the opening of this bit of roadway, officially designated on Carmel maps, should be delayed as long as possible.

The SERA project committee, as represented at the meeting Tuesday by Mayor Thoburn, Hugh W. Comstock, Bernard Rowntree, Mrs. J. L. Cockburn, Hazel Watrous and Thelma B. Miller, asked and received from Street Commissioner Burge assurance that no road would be built over the dunes from Eighth street. He explained that a retaining wall is to be built at the lower end of a gully resulting from erosion. A storm drain down Eighth street from San Antonio to Scenic carries waters with considerable velocity to an underground pipe which empties below Scenic. It is desired to divert the runoff, which has plowed a deep channel in private property at the foot of the Scenic Drive cliff. Mr. Burge stated that when material has been carried to the foot of the cliff for the retaining wall, traces of the road will be obliterated and the top of the cliff will be restored as nearly as possible to its former appearance.

The cobblestone curb and gutter at the top of the cliff has now been carried to completion at the north end, where it joins the head of the wide, shallow stone stairway which gives access to the beach at this point. The committee expressed the belief that it would be unnecessary and unadvisable to carry the curb and gutter circularly down and around the bank to the north of the stairway, in such a manner as to define a possible roadway to the dunes. It was suggested by Mr. Comstock that the problem of checking the rush of storm waters from the Eighth street drain might be solved by breaking the fall from the mouth of the buried pipe with a series of steps, the effect of a stone waterfall, as has been done further south on the beach.

The committee expressed unqualified approval of the appearance of the curb and gutter, now completed from Santa Lucia to Eighth street, and of the various stairways and spillways which have been included as part of the erosion project. The efficacy of the drainage project was proved during this winter's rains, it was agreed. Instead of flowing over the brow of the cliff in torrential proportions, the storm runoff has been guided by the curb and gutter to the artificial stone spillways, gently deposited on the beach sands.

Respirator Gift to Community Hospital

Gift of a Drinker respirator for Peninsula Community hospital has been received with great satisfaction by the board of directors. W. W. Powell, president of the board, was here from Los Angeles last Friday and Saturday, and expressed himself well pleased with the condition of the hospital, with one serious problem, however, demanding immediate attention of the board. For more than a month the hospital has been operating at capacity, and extra beds are needed. It is felt that the time is approaching when a nurses' home will have to be built in the hospital grounds, in order to release the extra beds now occupied by the nurses. Ways and means to raise the necessary funds are now being considered by the board.

Salinas Man Drowns Off Point Lobos Rocks

Sidney Hall, 26, of Salinas, was reported missing by a group of friends with whom he was fishing on the rocks at Point Lobos Tuesday, and is believed to have been drowned. When Hall failed to join the party at lunchtime a search was instituted. Several hours later his pole was found floating near the point where he had last been seen. The accident victim is survived by a wife and child.

Candidates for City Office Have Until Next Wednesday Noon to File

THOUGH numerous aspirants are known to be in the field, only three have actually filed nomination papers designating that they are to be candidates at the city election April 14. All papers must be filed by 12 o'clock, noon, next Wednesday.

The nomination paper of Everett Smith, candidate for councilman, was circulated by Frank Townsend, and the names of the folowing sponsors appear upon it: Frank Townsend, Ross C. Miller, H. C. Hilbert, E. H. Ewig, Hugh W. Comstock, John H. Neikirk, Earl Graft, Mrs. Karl G. Rendtorff, R. F. Haller and Clara N. Kellogg.

Barnet Segal, incumbent treasurer and candidate for reelection, is sponsored by the following: L. E. Gottfried, H. W. Turner, Fred McIndoe, John R. Gray, Hurd Comstock, James H. Thoburn, Adolf C. Lafrenz, W. E. Kneass, Harold Nielsen, and Hal D. Bragg. Mr. Bragg circulated the petition.

Nomination blank for John Catlin was circulated by Alice Y. Nugent, and is sponsored by the following: Richard W. Johnson, Paul S. Mercurio, Courtland J. Arne, Mary V. Hathaway, Charles Delos Curtis, Howard Jackson, Helen Wood, T. B. Blanchard and James Weaver Kitchen.

Additional candidates had filed papers, but when some question arose as to their validity if the nomination papers were circulated by the candidates themselves, they withdrew the papers and are having them circulated by friends. In the case of still other candidates, papers are now being circulated, but have not gone through the formality of notarizing and filing with the city clerk, after which they become public records.

Announcements of candidacy for the council, to which two members are to be elected, have been made by the following: Miss Clara N. Kellogg, member of council from 1930 to 1934; Everett Smith, forester; John Catlin, incumbent; Dr. R. E. Brownell, incumbent; W. K. Bassett, publisher; Ernest Aldrich, carpenter.

Other candidates for treasurer, besides Mr. Segal, are Walter Gaddum, Helen W. Parkes, Ira D. Taylor.

Saidee Van Brower, city clerk, is candidate for re-election, and is unopposed.

Negro Confesses Robbing Home In Carmel; Two Bound to High Court

ROBBERY of the James L. Cockburn home the night of Jan. 8 was admitted by Craig Beckley, young Monterey Negro, in preliminary hearing before Police Judge George L. Wood, Tuesday morning. Beckley by inference sought to implicate his companion, Bob Spates, Negro, in the robbery. Spates admitted having acted as lookout while Beckley entered the dwelling, but denied that he himself had entered the house. The two were bound over to superior court after a brief hearing. Both appeared the same morning before Judge A. C. Jochmus in Pacific Grove, charged with robbing the Pierce Parsons residence the night of Jan. 25, and were also remanded to the superior court on that charge. Deputy District Attorney Kalmon Y. Sapero submitted the evidence in both hearings.

Mrs. James L. Cockburn appeared as a witness, identifying as among the objects taken at the time of the burglary a diamond stickpin, a peridot which had been the setting of a brooch, and a small jewel case purchased in Lucerne, Switzerland. Also introduced was a bunch of keys which Beckley admitted having taken from the Cockburn home. Spates said he had seen the keys and the pin in Beckley's possession.

Beckley was also charged in the complaint by Police Chief Robert A. Norton with being armed with a .45 calibre revolver at the time of the robbery. This he denied. Spates testified that Beckley had been so armed. At Beckley's request, he was given an opportunity to question his companion.

"Bob," he said, "when you were waiting outside the house, which side did you wait on?"

Spates answered that he was on the "left" side of the house, as seen from the street.

"Did you go in the house at all?" Beckley asked. Spates answered that he had not, but admitted in answer to the next question, that he had gone into the garage with Beckley.

"Did you see me with a pistol in the house?" asked Beckley.

"I know you had it when we started out," Spates responded.

"If you weren't in the house with me, how do you know I had a pistol in there?" was the next question. Sapero halted the questioning at this point, stating that this was "argumentative" rather than legitimate questioning of the witness.

It was learned from the deputy district attorney that questioning of Spates, known to be an associate of Beckley, led to information which broke down Beckley's former denial that he was responsible for the Cockburn burglary. Spates' footprints were matched with models made of those found in the Cockburn garden, and were declared by the police to be identical.

The diamond pin was recovered from a man who admitted having purchased it from Beckley. Other jewelry taken from the Cockburn home has not yet been recovered.

Mrs. Ranald Cockburn is spending a fortnight at Robles Del Rio.

Girl Scout Rally Is Held on Mesa

Girl Scouts of the 13 peninsula troops, 120 in all, including the new Mariner troop, held a most successful rally Saturday at Hatton Fields, preceding the kite festival in which they afterwards participated. The girls met at 12:30 for games, and after singing grace, enjoyed box luncheons on the grass.

The afternoon session opened with "colors," after which the Mariners sang popular songs, including "Don't Give Up the Ship." Jane Brackett of Pacific Grove led a number of "rounds."

Mrs. Ralph A. Coote, the commissioner, presented Miss Ruth Huntington, representing the badge and awards committee, who awarded the banner to Troop 8 of Pacific Grove, led by Mrs. William H. Colburn. The banner indicates the largest number of awards earned by any one troop.

Mrs. Coote mentioned that in the past W. R. Holman has made it his custom to invite all of the girl scouts to a party in the solarium at Holman's. As the membership has nearly doubled this year, the out-of-door rally was substituted for the party, but Mr. Holman continued to show his interest in the Girl Scouts by distributing individual souvenirs to every girl attending the rally.

Troop 6 from East Monterey provided an orchestra of cellos, violins, trumpets and a clarinet which played the Girl Scout hymn. The meeting closed with the singing of "Good Night" and "Taps" as the girls joined hands in a large circle.

Sunset First Team Beats Pacific Grove

Sunset's first games in the peninsula intermediate school baseball league were played at the school last Friday afternoon. The visitors were teams from Pacific Grove. Sunset's first team won, 13 to 9. The game was enlivened by a home-run by Billy Frolli, acting captain, and later, in the sixth inning when the score was tied and Billy was on third base he executed a squeeze play and came home safely.

The Pacific Grove second team won, 6-4, though the local second team gave evidence of being much stronger than was indicated in practice. Don Hale and Frank Townsend umpired the first team game and Rudolph Holtzhauer the second.

MISSIONARY MEETING

"The Dawn and Destiny of South America" will be the subject taken up by the Carmel Missionary Society at its meeting next Tuesday afternoon at 2:30, at All Saints' church. Members will contribute items of current interest about Latin America. The work of the Episcopal church in the West Indies will also be discussed.

Richard Baer has returned to Carmel and has taken a house for an indefinite stay.

You Can Buy or Build A Home

20 Years to Pay

The F. H. A. plan enables you to pay for a home in monthly installments over a period of twenty years. The loan can be made for 80 per cent of the appraised value of the property and the payments each month, which include interest, reserve for taxes and insurance, amount to approximately 1 per cent of your loan. This is, on a $5,000.00 appraised valuation you can borrow $4,000.00 and the payments will, in the average case, be approximately $40.00 per month with all charges included.

Striped Pattern

in Saxon-weave Suits

OF WEARLONG WORSTED

(Lined with Pure Celanese)

We are pleased that stripes have come into vogue with well-dressed men this season. There is nothing quite as flattering as a smartly striped suit, providing it is not too bold, and that's the important point about these Saxon-weave stripes. They're very soft and blend harmoniously with the background of the cloth. They are particularly flattering to short or stocky men because they have a tendency to add height and slenderness to the figure.

About the Saxon-weave Fabric

Here is a photograph of the Saxon-weave fabric, actual size.

Here is a micro-photograph of the same cloth, enormously magnified, showing the unusual cable-twist weave of the fabric. It is this weave, plus the fine quality of wool used, which makes the fabric wear long, hold its shape and crease, and prevents shine.

Federal's Music Project Operating

The Federal music project, Works Progress Administraiton, Monterey county unit, is established in the building formerly known as Unity Hall, on Dolores street, between Eighth and Ninth the work being carried on under the general supervision of Dene Denny.

Every morning at 9 o'clock banjo players, fiddlers, guitarers, drummers, pianists, trumpeters, singers, et al come over the hill from Watsonville road, Seaside Pacific Grove and Monterey and by 9:05 are busily at work.

Winifred Howe, assistant musical supervisor, is conducting a course in solfege, sight reading and chorus; Manuel Serrano, at one time known as the second best guitar player in Spain, has the Spanish group in charge rehearsing them in traditional Spanish music; a dance orchestra, with William Ferry in charge and Carlotta Fitzsimmons playing piano, rehearses two hours every afternoon. A small brass choir is also in rehearsal. Miss Denny has a class in elementary harmony from 9 to 10 every morning.

All players, singers, people with any musical ability who conform to WPA requirements are eligible to take advantage of this exceptional opportunity provided by the government, and those interested in working on the project should confer with Miss Denny.

HOME FROM HOSPITAL

Mrs. Kenneth Goold and her newly arrived son, Kenneth, Jr., returned home from the Peninsula Community Hospital last Tuesday.

TREES OCCUPY TIME AT COUNCIL MEETING

FOLLOWING an adjourned regular meeting Wednesday at which nothing much came up but the fate of various trees for which requests for trimming or removal were considered, the city council was to meet Thursday noon as a committee of a whole to make an inspection of the various trees concerned. Purpose of the Wednesday evening meeting was to consider calling for bids for the firehouse bonds. The matter was not ready, and the council will meet again at 7:45 this evening for that purpose. Inquiries have been received from a number of security houses, and it is believed the bidding for the $12,000 issue will be brisk, indicating that Carmel's credit is A-1.

One of Carmel's finest redwood trees is threatened with extinction, at the corner of Sixth and San Carlos, where a service station is being built. Also involved is a pine. Before granting permission for their removal the council was to consult with the builders, on the ground, to see if some approach to the service could not be laid out around the trees rather than over their stumps.

Ralph Skene, who is to build a home at the northeast corner of Camino Real and Tenth, asked permission to trim trees in order to admit sunlight, and to remove one which obstructs his proposed driveway. Norman Reynolds asked permission to top a cypress in front of the Moore property on Scenic, because, he said, it obstructs his marine view. Mrs. Mary A. Goold again asked for the trimming of branches which she says clatter against telephone wires and keep her from sleeping. In preparation for her new home on Junipero near Eighth, Miss Clara G. Hinds asked for the removal of a partially dead and obstructive tree. Permission was asked by Esta Broughton for the building of a garage at Casanova near Ninth, nearer the street than 15 feet, in order to save a clump of oaks. There is no legal manner of granting this latter permission, but it was pointed out that if and when a building ordinance is devised, this is one of the points it should cover. This would be in the spirit of the directions now printed on building permits, directing builders to plan houses and garages in such a manner as to avoid cutting trees.

As commissioner of health and safety Dr. R. E. Brownell gave the substance of a report from Guy Koepp, hired by Edward G. Kuster, the owner, to make a safety inspection of the burned Theatre of the Golden Bough. Koepp reported the structure safe. The council agreed that steps should be taken to remove the water which has accumulated to a depth of 15 inches beneath what was once the stage. This was felt to be a menace to health and an accident hazard, as children can and do go into the ruined building.

On behalf of the Mission association, Milton Latham asked the council for a favorable expression on the plan, as drawn up by Engineer Reeve Conover, to realign the tortuous county road to the mission, and providing for parking space at the mission. The council unofficially but heartily gave the project their blessing.

The amended ordinance fixing the time and place of meeting passed second reading. Permission for the hanging of a sign was given Jane's Cake Shop.

Triumph of Modern Spirit, Critic Says of Martha Graham's Dancing

MARTHA GRAHAM

WHEN Martha Graham dances here next week, at the Sunset school auditorium, March 28, Carmel will be privileged to witness a performance which New York critics have hailed as a triumph of the modern spirit. Courage and deep conviction have made her what she is; the most important figure in contemporary dancing. Discarding as superficial many of the older forms, she has created a new and vital art of motion, which from its very directness, moves even the most conservative audience to enthusiasm.

The amazingly beautiful color combinations, materials and designs of the costumes are the actual creations of Martha Graham herself. She never allows anyone to sketch or pattern anything for her. It is said that she will take the shears and clash into any material, be it cloth of gold or muslin, and, standing before a mirror, she will move through the dance, pinning and fitting as she goes, until the costume becomes an integral part of the dance itself.

It is the same with the stage lighting. With endless patience and endurance she tries out light after light until she has the effect she requires. Never does she leave the details to take care of themselves. She has that infinite patience which always accompanies true genius.

Because she is a great person within herself, Martha Graham never makes an insignificant gesture. Not only is this the case on the stage, but wherever she is at work.

Miss Graham believes that the dance is the elemental expression of the people and that it cannot be sincere if it is the copy of something else. For this reason she draws her inspiration only from the America of the present. Her work reveals the significant gesture, rhythm and character of America today. If it is stark, powerful, dynamic, so are the times. Martha Graham makes no compromise with sentimentality.

For her present tour Miss Graham is fortunate to have with her Louis Horst, "pianistic patron of the dance." It has been said of Mr. Horst that he knows more about dancing than do any of the dancers. He has accompanied and composed music for all the foremost American dancers—Martha Graham, Doris Humphrey, Charles Wiedman, Tamiris, Ruth Page and Agnes DeMille, and he was accompanist on the first tour of the European dancers, Harald Kreutzberg and Yvonne Georgi. In his compositions he has created a form which is peculiarly pliable and sensitive to the dance. He has worked with Martha Graham, writing the music, in many cases, after the dance has been completed.

Percussion and wind instruments form an ensemble for further accompaniment, and throughout the whole moves that spirit of spontaneous creation which does not permit one dull moment. Do not miss Martha Graham. She will be remembered and talked about long after most of the dancers of today have faded into oblivion.

Kite Festival Big Success

KITES of all shapes and sizes filled the sky last Saturday as Carmelites and their visitors turned out to enter and to witness Carmel's sixth annual kite festival, held each spring in Hatton Fields.

Founded by Dr. Willis G. White, the kite festival has increased in popularity from year to year and now draws many entrants from all over the peninsula. Last Saturday's contest is said to be the fifty-fourth such event sponsored by Dr. White, and judging from the attendance, Carmel will enjoy many more. Winners in the five divisions were:

Kindergarten to 2nd grade: 1st, Douglas Calley; 2nd, Edgar Hoffman; 3rd, Linne Bardarson; 4th, Morgan Quickert (Seaside).

Best kite—3rd to 5th grades: 1st, Gordy Miyamoto; 2nd, Baird Bardarson; 3rd, Rex Coates (Forest Hill); 4th, Harry Hunt; 6th to 8th grades: 1st, Leota Quickert (Seaside); 2nd, Harold Johnson; 3rd, George De Amaral; 9th grade and up, Paul Warrington.

Prettiest kite, 2nd to 8th grades: 1st, Marjorie Evans; 2nd, Adaline Guth; 3rd, Sonja Koehler; 4th, La-Verne De Amaral.

Oddest kite—3rd to 8th grades: 1st, Dick Sayers; 2nd, Fennimore Bradley; 3rd, John Wood; 4th, Jimmy Welsh.

Highest flying—all grades: 1st, Junior Cass (Seaside); 2nd, Jim Rand; 3rd, Billy Richardson.

Everett Smith served as field marshal and Charles Guth was guide. Judges for the best kite were Miss Ruth Huntington, Miss Hazel Watrous and Reverend Austin B. Chinn; prettiest kite, Major Ralph Coote, Mrs. Ralph Coote and Mrs. Ross C. Miller; oddest kite, Alvin Beller and Paul Whitman; highest flying, Ross C. Miller, John Catlin, Louis Levinson and Bernard Rowntree.

Sponsors for the event were: Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Willard, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Crossman, Mr. and Mrs. Otto W. Bardarson, Mr. and Mrs. Armin Hansen, Mayor and Mrs. James Thoburn, Dr. and Mrs. Laurence M. Knox, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Staniford, Mrs. Sydney Fish, Mrs. W. F. Kilpatrick, Miss Ada Howe Kent, Miss Clara Kellogg, Miss Elizabeth Niles and Rev Willis G. White.

Route to Big Sur Said In Fair Shape

Pavement extends from Carmel to San Remo Divide on the Big Sur road, followed by good oiled road to Molera ranch, with the exception of a short stretch of construction, reports the touring bureau of the California State Automobile Association. The work consists of widening and requires careful driving. Motorists are also cautioned regarding drifting sand a short distance beyond the Little Sur bridge. Realignment work is being done from Molera Ranch for more than a mile and there are also some rough and narrow stretches where the road has been affected by storms. It is possible to drive to six miles south of Big Sur, whence widening work is being done to Anderson's Landing. This latter section is not advisable as a pleasure trip.

SUBSTITUTE OFFICER

As a substitute for Earl Wermuth, who is recuperating from a major operation, Leslie Overhulse has joined the Carmel police force. He will be on night patrol duty.

Work was begun in Salinas this week on excavations for the new Monterey county courthouse.

Symbolic Play at Sunset Today

"Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow" is the title of a symbolic play to be given in Sunset auditorium this afternoon at 2:45 by boys and girls of the sixth grade. The play is based on classroom work in social studies, traces the development of man and closes with a glimpse into the ideal future with the traditional forces of evil which have hindered his fullest development vanquished by the forces of good. The play has four themes, showing the life of primeval man, the golden ages of Greece and Rome, the growth of Christianity, and the possible ultimate triumph of good.

Jackie Leidig will play the central character of Man about whom the action revolves. The prologue will be given by Laurel Bixler, the epilogue by Gordon Stoddard. Hugh Gottfried will be the speaker for the final scene which shows man as he will be in the future. Donald Morton will lead the Saracens and Helen Wetzel the Christians in an exciting scene showing the conflict between the two religious groups for the control of Europe, and Patsy Shepherd will portray the Spirit of Christianity. An especially effective scene announced by Jimmy Welsh shows the mothers of the world, bereaved by the loss of their sons in war.

The forces of evil will be played as follows: Death, Elizabeth Watson; Suspicion, Eleanor Johnston; Hatred, Marilyn Strasburger; Ignorance, Inez Machado; Fear, Beverly Douglas. The forces of good: Peace, Margot Coffin; Music, Marilyn Fleming; Poetry, Dorothy Nixon; Literature, Helen May Wermuth.

Others taking part in the play are: Charlotte Townsend, June Petty, Phyllis Watson, Howard Levinson, Patty Ann Ryland, Ellen Pearl McGrury, Jack Harner, Joan Fauntleroy, Motje Hansen, Dorothy DeAmaral, Cecelia Noller, Pete Steffens, Katie Miranda and Nancy Ricketts.

The members of the shorthand class of the Grove high presented their instructor, Miss Muriel Sowerby, with a lovely gift, on the occasion of her birthday, Tuesday.

"Wizard of Oz" Is Expertly Done

No better medium than a puppet show could be devised for the coming-to-life of the fantastic characters of the Oz books, beloved of children. The "Wizard of Oz" puppet show put on at two performances last Friday at the Sunset school proved that the young people from the Cornish school have the proper spirit of childish simplicity and wide-eyed acceptance of fantasy to make their interpretation valid. The puppets were charmingly fashioned and handled by a group of experts, who easily created the illusion of life, if of life in another dimension than most of us inhabit.

The characters were Dorothy and her cocky little black dog, who were whirled away by a Kansas cyclone to the incredible land of Oz where they encountered a number of engaging creatures; the tin woodsman whose joints needed oiling; the scarecrow who had no feeling because he had no brains and needed assistance with his equilibrium; the lion with every appearance of ferocity, but with a terrible inferiority complex; a benevolent stork; witches good and bad; and of course the awesome Wizard, who bolstered his lack of belief in his own powers by a series of convincing false fronts.

This amusing company experienced adventures against a series of most attractive backgrounds, cleverly lighted, and to the accompaniment of music which had just the right spirit for an Oz materialization.

Open House and Spring Fashion Revue at Holman's Store Tonight

AN official revue of spring and summer fashions will be held this evening in connection with an open house at Holman's department store. The two big style shows given each year, spring and fall, at Holman's have become traditional events. They have had a consistent record for accurately forecasting the popular trends of the season, and are followed with lively interest. Coming at the psychological moment when winter clothes begin to seem like last year's plumage, and minds are not yet made up as to the new season's wardrobe, it is expected that the usual capacity crowd will attend the parade at 7:30 this evening. Refreshments will be served and there will be music.

The complete array of costumes for all ages, occasions and both sexes will be modeled by well-known peninsulans. The revue will include men's wear and children's garments, as well as afternoon, evening, street, business, active and sports costumes for matrons and misses. Gordon Knoles will act as commentator.

Leading the parade of mannequins will be Madeline Jacobsen, Harriet Holman, Olivia Davis, Natalie Sharpe, Betty Seabury, Catherine Bates, Mrs. Inez Francis and Mrs. Thelma Parker. Fashions for high school girls will be modeled by Shirley La Porte and Betty Jackson. The small fry will be represented by Gwyneth Brown, Alice Joy Bentley, Adrienne Knoles, Nancy Jane Pierce, Mary Louise Fullington and Patricia Fullington.

What the well-dressed business man will wear at his desk and in hours of leisure will be shown by Ernie Watson, Sydney Brown, Marlowe Jones, Carl Gustafson, Leo McCoy and Tom Moore. Bobby Walker, David Craig, Nappy Easterbrook and Junior Johnson will show boys' clothes.

Two Newcomers to Carmel Art Gallery Exhibit Outstanding Paintings This Month

By THELMA B. MILLER

HAVE you been to the art gallery yet this month? There are some items in the current display of more than usual value, and we recommend particularly the canvases of two newcomers. We think you will like the work of Laura Adams Armer, who sent two paintings down from Berkeley where she is living at present, after joining the Carmel Art association just recently. Mrs. Armer has lived for many years in the Hopi and Navajo country. She is an authority on Indian lore; she also has the all-seeing eye of the artist. About three years ago she discovered that she was a writer as well as a painter, and since then she has neglected her brushes to turn out a book a year. They are made better by the fact that she illustrates them with her own sketches, but just the same we feel badly to think of her pallet of gorgeous colors gathering dust and cobwebs.

Color scratches and crackles in her painting of an Indian shepherd girl, and the composition, of girl, sheep, and Indian nicknacks, is a joy to behold. Her other entry is called "In Ceremonial Robes"; a group of praying figures also craftily arranged.

L. E. DeJoiner's "Fisherman's Wharf" is an unusual treatment of a familiar theme. The old buildings exude warmth and the color which is refraction of hot light from weathered surfaces. He has handled the greasy sea in the foreground captivatingly.

A strange blend of modernism and the primitive is Henrietta Shore's "Jesus Walking the Waves." The technique is hard-surfaced, yet there is a penetrating nutshell comment on Man in the querulousness, faith and fear in the faces of the watching disciples.

Burton Boundey essays a new subject in a very successful treatment of a floral still-life. William Ritschel exhibits his usual robust strength in handling an unruly subject as he paints a monumental arched rock, strongly buttressed against the sullen onslaught of the sea. Percy Gray's "Oak Trees" is one of his consistent little gems of California landscape, with a particularly happy effect of light. Here is one man who can make a little painting without making it look like a fragment of a big one. It is as tranquil, as vast and uncircumscribed as if the auditor were actually focussing his eyes on one detail in Nature, momentarily ignoring but not forgetting the whole panorama.

John O'Shea's "Birds of Paradise" is a composition of exotic flowers, but as is usual when this urbane Irishman paints flowers he does it as one with a message to clarion. In the angular contours of a wading bird, a detail of the background screen, he emphasizes the lines of the flowers, and the color stabs at you.

"Southland" and "Marin" are two landscapes of Thomas McGlynn, who sees the California colors in a considerably higher and more delicate key than many of our landscape painters, so that the effect is like sponging one's brow with cool water. Armin Hansen's "Drifting with the Tide" is the loveliest thing he has shown at the gallery; an evidence of coming to new terms with the sea with which he is so fatefully preoccupied. A heart-filling shade of Nile green pervades the canvas, and the touch of rosy sails is an afterthought, a detail in his profound meditation on the vastness of sea and sky. It would seem that Mr. Hansen is probing some hitherto unpenetrated depths of his own personality.

The hot breath of the desert exudes from Ferdinand Burgdorff's painting, which has flowering brush as its center of interest. It is not a desert painting, because just over the rise is a bit of sun-bright sea, but it is one of those hot, still days when the arid valleys extend their spell to the very water's edge.

The challenging modern note is struck by Alice R. Comins' interpretation of Mt. Toro in colors that ring like a gong and contours that engage interested attention. Edda M. Heath has done her share to immortalize the "Evangeline" village that sprang up for the movies on Point Lobos several years ago. Her "Village by the Sea" could also be an idealized representation of Carmel as seen from the Seventeen-Mile Drive.

"Cypress and Silver Sea" is by DeNeale Morgan; the tree painted with her usual forthrightness, and instead of the characteristic intense sea color which she so loves, she has chosen to depict the waves all foam-laden. Ida Maynard Curtis' "Rhythm of the Shore" has a vibrant gaiety of color, delicate rather than intense, and she has made a pattern of beach umbrellas and brightly dressed loungers, like beads strung loosely on the silver chain of Carmel beach. Celia B. Seymour has an arresting bit of turquoise sea in her "Green Cove."

For lack of space and time we list without description other paintings: J. V. Cannon's "California Coast"; Elizabeth Strong's "Point Lobos"; "Mono Lake" by Ferdinand Burgdorff; "Dunes" and "California Canyon" by Bertha Smith; "Hills of Watsonville" by Homer Levinson and "Toward Carmel" by Charlotte Morgan.

P-T. A. Dinner and Entertainment Increases School Library Fund

MORE than 200 parents, teachers and friends of Sunset school gathered Tuesday evening in the school lunchroom for a community dinner which proved to be one of those occasions of friendly and informal entertainment for which Sunset P-T. A. is famous. The dinner was served buffet style, P-T. A. members aiding the diners in finding places at candle-lit tables bedecked with flowers and greenery.

The gathering was briefly addressed, after dining, by Miss Clara Kellogg, P-T. A. president, O. W. Bardarson, school principal, Frank Townsend on behalf of E. H. Ewig, president of the board of trustees, who was unable to be present because of illness, and Mrs. Louis H. Levinson, secretary of the board.

Miss Kellogg told of the purpose of the dinner, not only to provide the opportunity for friends of the school to become better acquainted, but to provide funds for books for the school library. "We have a good school and hope to have a still better one," Miss Kelogg said, "and one reason we have a good school and one hope for its improvement lies in the steady cooperation of the parents through this organization." She told of various practical matters with which the P-T. A. has helped, and its most recent enterprise, the purchase of wallboard to be used on the west wall of the lunchroom as a background for teachers' exhibits. As this was "father's night" at the P-T. A., she introduced next "the father of Baird and Linne Bardarson."

Mr. Bardarson spoke of the program of Sunset school as adapted to meet the needs of the child as an individual, and of the spirit of friendliness which prevails, child to child and child to teacher. He announced that the school will have its own library next year, result of completion of the two unfinished classrooms now under way as an SERA project, and that murals for that room will be painted by Armin Hansen.

Something of the practical side of the work of the board of trustees was explained by Mr. Ewig in the paper read by Mr. Townsend. He told of the advantageous opportunity to complete the classrooms at this time, with federal aid to the extent of about 40 per cent of the total cost of $4600, so that the district tax is covering the school's share of $2700. The boiler-room project will cost the district about $1100, of the total of $2000, he said.

There has been no increase in the district tax rate, it was pointed out, because increased average daily attendance brought additional state funds, and because of increase in the assessed valuation of the district.

"If you hear criticism of this or that," it was urged, "don't redistribute the remarks to your neighbor; that doesn't solve the problem. Bring your criticisms directly to the board; we are open to constructive suggestions which will continue to inspire intelligent people with a desire to live in Carmel because of its splendid progressive school."

"By bringing together so many who by their presence at this dinner prove their interest in the welfare of the children, I feel that Sunset school is fulfilling one of its highest purposes," said Mrs. Levinson. As a member of the P-T. A. for the past nine years, she expressed her faith in that organization as a constructive factor. "To make life happier and richer in opportunity for the children has been the goal toward which it has striven. The school's great function, in cooperation with the home, is to make smoother, by wise counsel, the steep and rocky pathway to 'the future's undiscovered land.'"

During dinner music was furnished by three young accordian-players, Billy Frolli, Alice Vidoroni and Martin Artellan. An enjoyable program of dances, in groups and solos, was given by the following: Roemarie Mattimore, Babette De Moe, Patty Lou Elliott, June Delight Canoles, Billy Pat Torras, Aileen McIldowney, Mary Jane Elliott, Carol Canoles, Rose Marilyn Funchess, Laurel Bixler, Leona Ramsey and Dorothy Nixon.

The evening closed with community singing led by Rev. Homer S. Bodley and accompanied at the piano by Miss Madeline Currey, who also played for the dance numbers.

VETERAN EXEMPTIONS

Veterans claiming property tax exemptions are now obtaining affidavits from City Clerk Saidee Van Brower for city taxes, from Bernard Rowntree for sanitary district taxes, and from Corum Jackson, newly-appointed deputy county tax assessor, for county taxes.

WASHED INTO SEA

While fishing off the rocks south of Carmel Sunday, Tony Stuckert of Fresno was washed into the sea by a huge wave. He was rescued by members of his party and was given treatment at the Community hospital before returning to Fresno.

CURRENT EVENTS SECTION

The next meeting of the Woman's club current events section will be next Wednesday morning at 10:30 at Pine Inn. The subject to be presented by the chairman, Mrs. Lawrence Knox, will be "Germany and the Next War."

WHEN Major W. J. Hairs closed Merle's Treasure Chest and journeyed with Mrs. Hairs to Australia, one of Carmel's beautiful antique shops went out of business.

It comes as pleasant news that the Major has returned and will reopen Merle's in the new Fee building, occupying the principal store site in the building next to the library. Here many beautiful gifts and antiques, collected on his travels, will be displayed.

Major Hairs has spent a large part of his time supervising the construction of the store, making it most attractive and practical. The opening

Also tenants in the new building are Joe's Taxi service with his fleet of Packard cars ready at all times, and Paul's Barber shop, a clean and strictly modern parlor.

The Fee building is situated next to the library and has been designed to blend harmoniously with the library grounds. It is a two-story building with a small apartment and several offices on the second floor. Iron grill work and decorations in good taste, give the building a particularly pleasing appearance.

"Oxford and Cambridge: Do They Educate?" Topic of Address Here

BEFORE an intimate group in the rear room of Tilly Polak's shop, Chandler Bragdon talked informally the afternoon of March 12; his subject, "Oxford and Cambridge: Do They Educate?" Himself a Cambridge man, young Mr. Bragdon rather disarmingly declined to answer the question in a stout affirmative, but he also showed that it is not the objective of these ancient seats of learning to be educational mills. There is no funnelling of facts into acquiescent heads, but rather the universities provide background, atmosphere and associations in which a man, if he be studiously inclined, can proceed to investigate the field of his specialty at his own pace. The speaker thought that the deepest mark of Cambridge was made on him not by his studies in history or his tutors, but by the sheer beauty of the place, the men he learned to know well, the feeling of age and continuity which he absorbed from the gray walls.

Mr. Bragdon went into detail as ot the organization of the English university, the routine of both undergraduates and dons. He contrasted the English with the American system of higher education, finding the chief difference to be that in the former, men are left to develop by themselves, while here the student is under constant pressure to earn high marks. An American student is at first "bewildered" by the extent to which he is left to his own devices. Rules of conduct are strict, but the man studies or not, as he wishes. If he be the sort capable of bringing glory on the institution as an athlete, that is quite as satisfactory as if he were working for academic honor.

The nation is more closely connected with the university than in this country, Mr. Bragdon noted. Oxford and Cambridge have contributed heavily to the ruling classes of Britain; the nation's leaders maintain their close connection with their universities. Likewise, the universities have a sense of responsibilty toward the nation, and the English sense of strong individualism, said Mr. Bragdon, is not at all incompatible with a deep feeling of obligation to the state.

Commenting on the trend toward the English system at Harvard and Yale, the speaker expressed the opinion that the transplantation will not be successful unless there is a trend away from "pressure for high marks." This attitude, he believes, will not come easily to American institutions of higher learning, but, "facts are important only as filtered through individual personalities"; memorizing them for the purpose of passing examinations is putting emphasis in the wrong place.

Mr. Bragdon's home is in Rochester, N. Y., but he has been doing some teaching in California and has been visiting in Carmel since midwinter. He is a son of Claud Bragdon, the writer and metaphysician.

SCHOOL WEEK OBSERVANCE

Pacific Grove's annual observance of public schools week will be held on the following dates: Pacific Grove high school auditorium Wednesday, April 29 at 8 o'clock with an address by Vierling Kersey, superintendent of public instruction of California, and also music and exhibits. Pacific Grove grammar school auditorium, Friday, May 1, at 7:30 o'clock with exhibits and instrumental and vocal music.

Giants Leading Abalone League

By RONALD JOHNSON

The Giants now lead the Abalone league, the Shamrocks are second, Tigers third and Pilots last. These are the standings of the four teams after last Sunday's games, in which the Giants beat the Shamrocks 13 to 3 and the Tigers took the Pilots by a score of 9 to 7.

In the first game the Giants scored in every inning, and led the Shamrocks through the entire game. The Shamrocks couldn't get started, and after making two runs in the first inning they only scored ofice in the remaining six.

The second game was a free-hitting event from the start, and offered much more excitement than the first. The score was tied until the sixth inning when the Tigers put over two more runs and held their lead to the end.

Officials for the games were "Doc" Staniford, Ralph Zuck, Frank Jacott and Dr. John Gray.

Much credit should be given to the younger boys who are turning out for the games this year. According to Doc Staniford, these youngsters have added much speed and life to the teams and many of them show great promise of becoming outstanding players.

Next Sunday, March 22, the Tigers will attempt to upset the Giants at 1:30 and the Shamrocks and Pilots will meet in the second game at 2:45 Both games will be played on the Carmel Woods diamond.

Music and Dancing in San Francisco

By ALAN CAMPBELL
San Francisco Music Reviewer for The Carmel Pine Cone

TWO attractions of major importance will conclude the brilliant series of concerts Peter Conley has brought to the San Francisco Opera House this season—Artur Schnabel, pianist, and Nino Martini, tenor. Schnabel's program of four Beethoven sonatas is scheduled for the evening of March 26. There is no pianist living whose interpretation of Beethoven has won the universal praise bestowed upon Schnabel. The stir caused by the announcement of his program reminds one of the furore that attended Alfred Cortot's "All Chopin program" in San Francisco several seasons ago. Incidentally, San Francisco is the only city in the United States that may boast a "Record Lending Library." There is already a "waiting-list" at this library for Schnabel's recordings of the four Beethoven sonatas he is to play here—Opus 2, No. 2; Opus 57; Opus 22; and Opus 111.

The evening of April 29 brings to the Opera House Nino Martini, youthful lyric tenor from the Metropolitan. This song recital, which will close the Peter Conley season, marks Martini's San Francisco debut, though he is already an established favorite there, due to his Metropolitan Opera radio broadcasts, many recordings, and single venture into the motion picture world! Musicians today, particularly vocalists, must be unusually versatile and energetic—weekly flights from New York to Hollywood are just part of the routine. Eastern critics have lauded Martini for his sympathetic and intelligent handling of his voice—his commendable sense of moderation and avoidance of vocal "fireworks." His youth and attractive appearance stand him in good stead in his many romantic opera roles. They are also happy endowments for a concert appearance.

The life of Bronislaw Huberman, Polish violinist, spells romance to such a degree, it is a bit difficult to realize that he belongs to our twentieth century. At the age of six he won magnificent praise from Joachim . . . at 13 he publicly played the great "Brahms' violin Concerto" at Vienna, in the presence of the composer . . . then, after innumerable joint recitals with Patti, the city council of Genoa placed at his disposal, Paganini's violin! Peter Conley will present Huberman to music-lovers of the bay region at the Veteran's Auditorium, on the evening of March 20. This recital promises to be an extraordinary treat—the limited capacity of the auditorium always creates an inspirational intimacy between performers and audience. This "rapport" was admirably achieved when the "Paris String Quintette" played there last season. Huberman is an authority on antique violins and he will play on his famous Guarnerius with his . . . "strong glowing tone, and sweetness that is almost pain, and yet a tight control of emotion, an infinite remoteness and reserve."

Two nights after Huberman's appearance, another great artist is scheduled for the Veteran's Auditorium. Tom Girton, who managed the San Carlo Opera Company during its most successful San Francisco engagement, will present on the evening of March 22, Rosa Raisa, in an international song recital. Raisa's wealth of temperament, singularly mellow voice, and statuesque beauty, have endeared her to the concert-going public and her generous song recitals have a niche of their own in the hearts of concert-goers.

Double-Feature Bills Again to Be on Filmarte Screen Over Week-End

AGAIN a strong combination of double-billed features fills the week-end at the Filmarte theatre.

"The Wedding Night" concerns the love story of a famous New York author and a New England farm girl, the latter in the person of Anna Sten. It is the one picture in which this lovely Russian girl acts against an American background with Gary Cooper as the typical New Yorker. Helen Vinson and Ralph Bellamy head a strong supporting cast.

"Wake Up and Dream" is a hilarious comedy with music, the featured players being June Knight, Roger Pryor and Russ Columbo, who play a small-time vaudeville trio in search of bigger and better fortunes than are offered on Atlantic City's boardwalk. Henry Armetta, one of the screen's best Italian-American comedians, comes in this picture into a "fat" role which permits him almost to "steal the show."

"Love Me Forever," with Grace Moore and Leo Carillo, needs no description. Whether it surpasses "One Night of Love" or not may be a debatable question, but after all that is not the point. It stands by itself as melodious, beautiful and completely satisfying. A "Last Chance" showing of this delightful picture, according to the announcement of the Filmarte management.

A week-end schedule, showing in what combinations these films can be seen on the Filmarte double bills, appears in another column of this issue.

DRAMATICS AGAIN

Being incurable enthusiasts about the drama, amateur or professional, and—yes, let us say it, good or bad, because we would rather see poor performances than no performances—we are also incurable optimists about the drama in Carmel. Each "reorganization on a better footing" we are ready to herald and encourage, even after studying the checkered history of this "village of 2000 actors and no audience," as it has been called. Carmel has achieved the reputation abroad of being a "director killer." It has been pointed out that one year is about the limit for any director here. But we are still hopeful.

The latest, and most promising enterprise, is for the adult education department to take a thoroughly impersonal hand in our dramatic activities. The Monday evening seminars at Sunset school promise to be a clearing-house for talent, and a mechanism by which a certain amount of analysis and study can be given to the interesting business of play production.

There are a good many people here who are interested in plays and in the intangible bohemian atmosphere which accumulates around play-producing groups, without themselves being bitten with any particular ambition to shine before the public. They like to keep abreast of what is happening in the theater, to read plays, discuss and analyze them. In the rush of getting a play into such shape that an audience will pay good money to see it, the amateur players have little opportunity to examine the fine points of dramatic construction or to study the inner motives of the playwright. It seems to us that this adult educational seminar will be a fine gathering place for such appreciators of the drama, who would not care to subject themselves to the grilling discipline of a real theater school. The theater school exists to produce actors, directors and technicians; the Carmel seminar could be more in the nature of a course in dramatic appreciation—educating auditors, we might say, instead of only actors.

The seminar, as we understand it, will in no way interfere with the activities of varied groups who wish to put on plays in the usual manner. If play-producing groups care to submit their manuscripts to the seminar for study, and to advise its active members to join the seminar, it occurs to us that both might benefit; the active group by more intensive study of the opus at hand, and the seminar by being prepared to understand and appreciate the fine points of the production.

Carmel would not be Carmel without its amateur plays and players. A graphic history of the village could almost be written just about the various groups and personalities which have at one time or another been in the theatrical limelight here. No phase of creative activity is more worth encouraging and keeping alive than that of the amateur theater. Every effort to build up interest in the theater merits the support and encouragement of those who have enjoyed such activities through the years, either as participants or as observers. We'll be seein' ya at the seminars.

Angel, will you see her
Through this first new day?
Tell her all the little things
I forgot to say.

Take her shopping with you
For her Heavenly Things;—
I think she'll laugh a little
But rather like wings.

And if she's too polite
Or too afraid to tell you,
Angel, Please, she'd feel
Horrid in a halo.

Let her pick the flowers,
Let her wings be pretty;
To be dead at all
As young as that's a pity.

VILLAGE IDYL

I love the peace of little towns
Quiet under trees
That arch the streets with verdant crowns,
White fences at their knees,
With sprinklers swishing over lawns
Where children shriek, and run
Across the sparkling stream, like fawns
Disporting in the sun,
Pansies fresh with morning dews
Gay along garden paths,
And roses flaunting crimson hues
On trellises of laths.
From backyard lines with white clothes flying.
Clean in noonday's heat
To cool verandahs where the dying
Light, and darkness meet,
I love their staid complacency,
Their homely, warm simplicity.

Here's Looking at You

By LOIS COLLINS PALMER

HERE is a good comment on liberalism, in response to my invitation of last week for readers to send me their interpretations of that moot term:

March 13, 1936.

Dear Miss Palmer:

Without bothering with dictionary definitions, we probably could readily agree as to what is a miser and a spendthrift. Probably if we thought about the matter, we would say that a liberal spender was one who spent more than the average person.

Likewise a liberal contributor would be one who contributed more than the average, or one who was more free from the restrictions of the average person.

In regards to beliefs, whether of religion, politics or economics, it might be stated that a liberal is one who is not so tightly held by restrictions as the average person.

We hear of one classed as a conservative or progressive Republican (or Democrat) and we have little difficulty in placing them at opposite extremes. We must have some idea of what we consider the average Democrat (or Republican) and I would class the liberal as being more open minded and willing to listen to reasons or argument, than we expect of the average.

We might classify humanity in this order: reactionary, conservative, average, liberal, progressive, radical.

I agree with your statement (though you didn't make it) that reactionaries and conservatives don't want to hear the other side of the question. Neither do progressives or radicals. The average doesn't care. The liberal, as you say, is curious. He may not agree, but he wants to know what the other believes, and why.

—BERNARD ROWNTREE.

A ROAD ON THE BEACH

Not unjustifiably, perhaps, something of an alarm tocsin was sounded this week at a new threat of Carmel's pet phobia, "desecration of the beach." Carmel citizens are exceptionally vigilant for the preservation of natural beauty, and the appearance early this week of men and tractors at a spot where no reason was known for men and tractors to be active resulted in questions being asked. It was right and proper that such questions should be asked, for the physical appearance of Carmel is a topic of vital importance to most Carmelites. If anything is going to be done to change it drastically, we all want to know why, and whether full study has been given as to the necessity of such change, and the method to be followed after that necessity has been proved.

At several council meetings, most recently at the meeting of March 4, the possibility of opening Del Mar from its present dead end just south of Ocean has been discussed. The reason given is to carry traffic south and east and back to town again, without the necessity of making the turn in the pocket by the beach and heading back to Ocean. One advantage stated by proponents of the plan is that it would give more space for the parking of cars at the beach; whether this is a desirable objective is seriously open to question. Where space is offered for the parking of cars, cars will come. Where physical space is not available, they will not come. The beaches of Southern California are jam-packed with automobiles and humanity during the summer season; no one has successfully contended that we wish to duplicate that situation here.

On the maps of Carmel, Del Mar is shown as extending southward to Eighth street, and Eighth is shown as extending westward to join it. It looks innocuous enough, on the map, but the actual situation is that Eighth street would be carried down over a beautiful stretch of flower-crowned sand knolls, and Del Mar would cross the beach, passing directly in front of that picturesque little stone house, which now has a perfect setting in its isolated waste of sand. The result would be automobile traffic actually on the beach.

Pismo, our distinguished neighbor down the coast, has made it possible for automobiles to gain access to the beach, by just such a roadway down over the soft sand. Automobiles and sunbathers are about equally numerous at the water's edge, and beach strollers have to step lively out of the way of speeding cars. In the wildest flurry of imaginative fear it is doubtful if Carmelites dreamed that they would ever be menaced by automobile traffic on the beach, but that possibility is not so remote.

PRAYING FOR RAIN

Carmel is praying for rain, and not only because the gardens are getting dry again. We want to see what is going to happen in the famous Neikirk culvert case. The Superior Court has not yet acted on the Carmel council's request for an injunction against John Neikirk, to restrain him from stopping up the culvert at Eighth and Torres, which as now designed, boosts drainage from the north end of town into the Bragg and Neikirk gardens. An interesting element has been introduced by the promise of Mrs. Bragg, who is about as big as a minute, to "sit in the culvert and hold Mr. Neikirk's sack of cement." We like her spirit. In the immortal words of Aimee Semple McPherson, "Who'll bring a bag of cement?"

"Christian Science: The Law of God Applied to Human Affairs," Title of Lecture

MRS. Louise Knight Wheatley Cook, C. S. B. of Kansas City, Missouri, a member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., delivered a lecture, entitled "Christian Science: The Law of God Applied to Human Affairs," under the auspices of The First Church of Christ, Scientist, Carmel, Sunday afternoon, March 15, 1936, in Sunset Auditorium, Carmel. The lecturer, being introduced by Russell Field, said, in part, as follows:

In these strange, difficult days of the world's unrest, is it not entirely worth while to know of a system of thinking which is not only a religion, but an exact science, capable of demonstration? Christian Science challenges fear, failure, doubt, distress of any kind by affording a practical and workable understanding of the changeless law of God. Let us have done with negative thinking. The world for too long has been looking at the wrong side of the ledger. One may hold a penny so close to his eyes that he can see nothing beyond it. And there is so much "beyond," of beauty and happiness and success! There is a way out of every human difficulty, no matter how hopeless it may appear to be, a right way, a quiet way, a way which will bless all concerned, the sort of way of which the prophet once wrote, "For ye shall go out with joy, and be led forth with peace."

In quoting from Isaiah I am reminded to say what doubtless most of you already know, that Christian Science derives its sanction from the Bible. Our textbook is named, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," and it was written by Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, and its only Leader.

All the works of our Master were founded upon a spiritual law which is as applicable now as it was then, for real law, God's law, does not change with the passing of the centuries.

"God is no respecter of persons" and neither is the law of gravitation. If I drop this pencil, it immediately goes down. If anyone drops a pencil, it immediately goes down. And may I add, it resquires no assistance from us! One does not have to push the pencil. He has only to release it. That is a point most important to remember, for the trouble with most of us is that we will not seem to "let go" of those false beliefs and theories which are so directly responsible for our difficulties. There is a law of God just as ready to operate, and just as instantly available as is the so-caled law of gravitation, but if we continue to cling to our troubles, still holding them fast in clenched, frightened fingers, how can we expect this law of God to operate in our behalf?

That which is called a Christian Science treatment is the law of God applied to any particular case. It releases, or "saves," us from all that is unlike God, thereby establishing our salvation, not deferred to some future time and to some so-called future world, but immediately, here and now. It includes a grateful acknowledgment of the good already received, a denial of whatever erroneous belief may be presenting itself for correction, and the establishing in consciousness of the great spiritual fact that since God and man are inseparable as Principle and idea, man can see only what God sees, and can know only what God knows, and that God's knowledge does not include such dark dream-shadows as sin, sickness, and death.

"But," someone may be thinking, "that does not sound very reasonable to me. You say that God does not know evil?" No. "Nor sickness?" No. "Nor sin?" No, indeed. "Then how can He heal what He does not know? How can He heal my rheumatism, for instance, if He does not know that I have any? I should not think that even God could do that!"

I shall answer that question by a metaphor. Suppose the sun could speak. It might say, "What is darkness? I never saw any. What is night? I never saw night. I do not know anything about it." That is true. The sun never saw night, does not know anything about night, and yet it destroys it every twenty-four hours. Light never knows darkness, can never know darkness, for where light is, there is no darkness. The sun does not have to know about darkness in order to destroy it. It has only to shine. The instant the sun comes, darkness vanishes. Darkness is not a real entity. It is just the absence of light. It has no power of resistance. It cannot fight back, because it is nothing at any time but the absence of something else. The only thing it can ever do is just to disappear. So it is with sickness, sin, sorrow, poverty, fear, suffering, — that rheumatism, for instance. When the sunlight of Truth is brought to bear upon them, Truth destroys them by reason of its own Allness, filling all space, and consequently leaving no place nor opportunity for evil of any sort.

Christian Science maintains that nothing has changed, nothing will ever change this forever fact of a perfect, complete, spiritual creation.

A Christian Science treatment only disperses the misconception of man by demonstrating his untouched perfection. It reveals him as he really is, not as he seems to be.

Of course at this point a clear distinction must be made between man, in God's image and likeness, and the poor, suffering race of Adam. Christian Science does not claim perfection for anything mortal or material. Far from it. It only says that where false material sense sees its own misconceptions, its own mistaken views of man, true consciousness, God-governed, sees the beauty and harmony and wholeness and completeness of the real, spiritual man. This does not mean, however, that there are two kinds of men. No. Just one, the one God made.

Perhaps some have come here tonight who have been struggling with a problem which is not physical, but financial. And it may be that the general situation does not seem to be responding as it should, considering how long and how earnestly the prayer to God for freedom has been carried on. It may be that someone is discouraged. He feels that no matter how hard he tries, nothing seems to move. Perhaps he is thinking, "I wonder if I shall find out today what is the matter?" Perhaps. May I help you to analyze the way you are handling this seemingly stubborn difficulty, your treatment, your prayer — for they both mean the same thing. It sometimes happens that in one's mental work on a claim of this kind he, all unconsciously, may have been including in that prayer the definite way in which he would like to see it answered. In his natural eagerness to see it "work out" he may have forgotten, just for the moment, that prayer which outlines its answer is not prayer at all, as Christian Science understands it.

How do we always know what is best for us? Misguided human sense is so easiliy deceived! Perhaps many of us can recall some time in our past experience when we were asking for something which, at the moment, looked so very fair and pleasant, so obviously right for us to have, that we could not understand why God, in His great wisdom, did not give it to us. But God, in His great wisdom, did not.

Someone once wrote of mortal man, "So weak is he, so ignorant and blind, that did not God sometimes withhold petitions which we ask, we should be ruined at our own request!" God will not let us be ruined at our own request. He loves us too much for that.

Never admit defeat. Never admit failure. There are no failures in God's universe. You are not a failure, nor have been a failure, nor are going to be a failure. That is not the truth about you. You are the child of God, free to walk the heavenly way, unhampered—and unafraid.

What the Candidates Say

Editor The Carmel Pine Cone:

You have generously offered me the use of your columns to state the platform upon which I stand for reelection and I gladly take advantage of the offer.

When I came to the council the taxes for general purposes were 100 cents on every hundred dollars of assessed valuation. They are now 83 cents. The credit for this belongs to every member of the council, yet, nevertheless it was I who personally initiated the tax reductions measures and convinced the council of their wisdom.

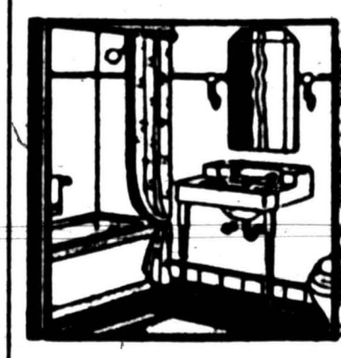

Notwithstanding this reduction, streets, police, fire, sanitation inspection and other public services have been greatly improved and increased and the ancient and obsolete equipment of the city has been replaced by modern and economically operated machinery. I will repeat that while I do not claim any more credit for this condition than any other councilman, I do assert that I have done my share toward its accomplishment. I have looked into every measure that has come before the council and have given each one studious consideration. I have opposed all efforts to extend the business zone even when great pressure was exerted to move me from my stand. In the city's business I have invariably favored the lowest responsible bidder with preference to local men all other things being equal, and I will continue in this course if I am returned to the council. Other than this I can think of nothing more to say for myself. As a formal platform, however, I promise to do in the future substantially what I have done in the past and stand firmly on Carmel's fundamental and organic law expressed in:

SECTION 1, ORDINANCE NO. 96, Commonly Known as the Zoning Ordinance:

"That the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea is hereby determined to be primarily, essentially and predominately a residential city wherein business and commerce have in the past, are now, and are proposed to be in the future, subordinated to its residential character; and that said determination is made having in mind the history and development of said city, its growth, and the causes thereof; and also its geographical and topographical aspects, together with its near proximity to the cities of Pacific Grove and Monterey, and the businesses, industries, trades, callings and professions in existence and permissible therein."

Lota to Be Heard Tomorrow Evening

Lota, exponent of the ancient art of Hindu dancing, singing to the cithara, and drumming, carries her audience back through 2000 years of time, when the Pharoahs clapped their hands and music was made on the cithare.

Tomorrow evening, in the assembly room of Pine Inn, the Denny-Watrous management presents Lota in a program of music, songs and dances of the Orient. Henry Cowell, noted musicologist, composer and authority on rhythm, will introduce Lota, explaining the significance of the plaintive tunes which come from the cithare, the ancient Indian instrument which resembles an elongated mandolin.

In the second half of her recital Lota will dance several Indian, Tonkinese and Bedouin dances, highly stylized and full of symbolic postures. She dances barefooted, with tinkling bells on her anklets, dressed in the native costumes of the countries whose dances she interprets.

Lota's recital will begin at 8:30 tomorrow evening.

IN a quiet way, the celebrities are converging upon us to enjoy the happy coincidence of Easter holidays and marvelous weather. Kathleen Norris arrives tomorrow with a party of friends, to stay for a week or two in a Carmel cottage. Seymour Winslow, the fiction writer, has returned with his charming wife, to stay in Carmel for a month before going back to their New York home. And yesterday Colonel and Mrs. Charles Wellington Furlong arrived to be the guests of Mrs. Furlong's mother, Mrs. Calista Bosqui Spinney. They motored out from Boston and will remain for several weeks. Colonel Furlong, who is internationally known in the field of exploration and as a writer and painter, has been lecturing en route at a number of the leading universities, clubs and schools, and is planning to spend much of his time here on his literary work.

Then there is Mrs. C. B. K. May, member of the Royal Society of Miniature Painters, who is vastly enjoying her first visit here. She is the guest of her charming niece, Gladys Steele, and her husband, Irving Gundersen.

Mr. and Mrs. James L. Cockburn motored to San Francisco at the end of the week, taking with them Miss Kathleen Cooke who had been their house guest, and who is now returning to her home in Vancouver. When the Cockburns returned they were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Gray of Dun Allan, Eskbank, Scotland. Mr. Gray is a cousin of Mr. Cockburn, and for many years was a rubber planter in Sumatra. In that way the British have of getting about, he has seen most corners of the globe. After two or three weeks here, he and Mrs. Gray will travel overland to the east, making one or two stops, then sailing for their home. They are here en route from Honolulu.

CARMEL WOMAN SPEAKS AT MISSIONARY MEETING

With Mrs. E. H. Miller of Carmel speaking of her personal experiences as a missionary in Korea, and Karl Gordon, telling of his work among the Salinas Filipinos, the monthly meeting of the Mayflower Congregational Missionary Society proved interesting. Mrs. John Hunter was hostess to the group at her home on Fourteenth street, Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Spencer Hoyt and Mrs. George Schuyler presided over the meeting, Mrs. Ella Powers led the devotionals, and Mrs. John Hunter led in prayer.

Book Section Enjoys Thumb-Nail Reviews of Biographical Works

BIOGRAPHY has provided the year's most interesting reading, was the unanimous opinion of members of the Woman's club book section who presented the program at Wednesday morning's meeting: a series of thumb-nail reviews of the volumes which they have enjoyed most this winter. Mrs. H. S. Nye sounded the theme of the program in stating that "books about real people" have proved most absorbing to her. Because of a similarity of viewpoint of the writers she presented Daphne Du Maurier's "Gerald—A Portrait," and Clarence Day's "Life With Father." In both these volumes, she said, is shown conflict between two generations, with the children able to stand off and give a kindly, impartial portrait of the parent. Well drawn character and sympathetic humor distinguish both.

Miss Agnes Ford agreed in finding biography the year's most interesting field, and expressed her own great satisfaction in Anne Lindberg's "North to the Orient," which she described as charmingly written, beautifully expressed, whimsical in humor, distinguished by a poetic strain and intense love of beauty, yet with a certain reticence unassailed.

Mrs. Jennie V. Cannon liked best, because it moved her most deeply, "Israfel"; Hervey Allen's monumental study of Edgar Allen Poe, whom Mrs. Cannon summed up as "America's greatest tragedy." Into a very brief review Mrs. Cannon managed to inject the emotional quality which overwhelmed her in contemplating the life of the poet through this volume. Its great strength was the complete objectivity with which the author marshaled his subject matter, she said.

"Facing Two Ways," the life of the Baroness Ishimoto was presented by Mrs. D. W. Willard. This daughter of the Samurai describes her own evolution out of the feudal culture which cradled her to her place in the modern world of social service; a recreation of herself which she attempted at her husband's instance, only to have him deplore the result, attempt to persuade her back to the cloister.

Mrs. Elizabeth K. Elliott found Walter Duranty's "I Write as I Please" the year's most interesting book, but as it was reviewed by Mrs. I. N. Ford at the last meeting, she discussed instead Beverly Nichol's "A Village in a Valley" as offering that occasional necessary escape from the world's stress and serious reading.

"North to the Orient" was also the choice of Mrs. Calvert A. Meade, who echoed Miss Ford's endorsement. Miss Agnes Knight, lacking time to prepare her own review, read a charming discussion of Margaret Deland's "If This Be I," from the New York Times book supplement; the author's recreation of her own six-year-old shelf, "amiable in a cruel way, but not loveable."

CRASH ON WAY HOME FROM CARMEL FATAL

En route back to their home in Connecticut after a visit in Carmel, Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Ohmer and their family were victims of a terrific automobile accident in New Mexico in which their son was killed, the daughter's legs were broken, and both Mr. and Mrs. Ohmer were badly injured.

February Expense for City Is $3115.77

March warrants signed by the city council, covering February expenses, totalled $3115.77, about $23 less than expenditures for the previous month. Fire department expenditures were $346.34, down $21 from the month before. The police department spent $681.23, $16 less than in February. Expenditures of the street department were $796.12, an increase of $143 over the preceding month. About one-third of the monthly expenditures were for salaries, a total of $1075.

Boy Scout Troop Holds First Meet

By LARRY McLAREN, JR.

Boy Scout Troop No. 39 of the local Scout council held its first meeting in the Carmel Boy Scout house since it has been reorganized. The Falcon Patrol with Fred McIndoe, who is patrol leader, took charge of the meeting. It was suggested by Fred McIndoe that some of the fellows in the troop learn how to drill. Incidentally, the rest of the meeting was spent drilling under the "eagle" eyes (they really are "second class") of George and Dick Crossman. Monterey County Assistant Boy Scout Commissioner Jack Flynn came over from Salinas to see how Troop 39 was coming along.

After the meeting a patrol leaders' meeting was held. All of the newly-elected patrol leaders and assistant patrol leaders who were present at the meeting were: Fred McIndoe, Jim Rand, Jimmy Thoburn, George Crossman, Dick Crossman, Sr., Colden Whitman and Charles Gansel. Scoutmaster Jack Canoles was also present at the meeting.

Y. L. I. BREAKFAST

With 66 senior and junior members attending, the Y. L. I. held a combined meeting and breakfast last Sunday morning at the Carmel-eta Inn. Grace was said by Father O'Daugherty, and Father McDonald, who was in charge of the meeting, gave an address in which he praised the Y. L. I. and its work. Short talks were also made by the president and officers of the group.

NOYES BUYS LOTS

William Noyes of Chicago, where he is vice president of the Imperial Brass Manufacturing Company, has purchased two lots on Santa Rita in the Eighty Acres.

Mexican Dance In Carmel March 26

To perpetuate the fiesta spirit which gave color and glamour to the Monterey peninsula from the time it was part of Mexico, the first Mexican dance this year will be held in Carmel, Thursday evening, March 26, at 8:30 p. m., under the auspices of the Aztec Studio Shop.

Music will consist of Latin-American pieces and old-time dances typical of the southwest. Opportunity is presented members of the group and visitors to witness and practice some of the less usual dances as well as those known to most of us.

The renewal of Mexican dances with the announcement of the present dance is due to the enthusiastic pressure of those who attended the Mexican dances last year in Carmel and others who heard of them but were too late to be invited.

Those interested in attending the present dance, either as participants or spectators, should apply beforehand for invitations for themselves and friends. The number of invitations is limited [illegible] ing for invitations may do so in Carmel at the Aztec Studio Shop, or in Monterey at the Mexican consulate. Dress for the dance will be strictly informal. Mexican and cowboy costumes will be used by those who have them. Further information will be provided at the places of registration.

Fashion Parade Tomorrow Night

One of the gayest social affairs held at Del Monte this year will be the dinner dance and fashion parade which takes place in the exotic Bali Room tomorrow night.

The very latest creations in sports attire, swimming togs and evening gowns brought here direct from New York by plane, spring decorations, unusual lighting effects and the presence of the smart polo crowd will all combine to make it an affair not quickly to be forgotten.

Twenty professional models from San Francisco will show off the advance fashions for spring and there will be music by Bob Kinney and his orchestra. The fashion show is being presented in collaboration with I. Magnin and company.

Mrs. Katherine MacFarland Howe is having a new home built at Casanova and Eighth. Miles Bain is the builder.
